FARINI CHOSSES NIAGARA AT NIGHT WITH

FIREWORKS.-Of a recent performance at night by Farini, the Niagara Falls Gazette

Says:

On the pole he bad four handsome paper lamps and several Roman candles. As soon as the match had been applied to the fireworks, he started on his journey with a quick and fearless pace. It was a grand, yet fearful spectacle. As the rapid discharges from the candles took place, he was completely enveloped with fire. He had proceeded but a short distance when one of the candles exploded with a report like a rife, The concession shook our traveler, but he kept right on as though nothing had happened. After proceeding perhaps one-third the distance his fireworks were exhausted, and be had nothing but his lamps to light up the lonesome and narrow way. He traveled the entire length of the rope without stopping.

the entire length of the rope without stopping.

After a while he could be discovered far out on his return. He had no lights but that offered by the moon, which just then began to peep ever into the garge of the river. He walked very rapidly and soon reached the American side, where he was heartily cheered.

Peculiarity and Difficulty of Constructing the Panama Knilrond. This road is forty-five miles long, though the straight line is only thirty-six miles, as it winds through innumerable hills, whose foliage is never touched by frost. On steamer days, 1,500 to 1,800 passengers go in a single train, on other days only lifteen or twenty. It is well conducted and managed, both at homeand on the latimus, no employe being al-lowed who is not courteous and well behaved. It is one of the most prefitable stocks in the world, every ticket being $25. This is just, however, as the road was constructed with great peril and risk, and depends entirely on the California trade for its business. Any change in travel would ruin it. The idea of its construction was one of the boldest and most difficult of execution; in a region where almost every conceivable material had to be brought from afar, and where the climate was thought to be almost certain death to foreigners. To meet this state of things, great numbers of liberated negroes were imported from Jamaica, many of whom yet live on the Isthmus, though still more are said to have died while building the road.

It is stated that such was the mortality in constructing the road, that one man died, of all classes, to every foot of the road from ocean to ocean! or over quarter of a million! The climate was not so much in fault, how-ever, as the neglect of the more common ever, as the neglect of the more common sanitary rules in food and covering, and the practice of intemperance and vice. For abandoning themselves to all vices and excesses, the laborers, whether white or black, seemed to court the fate which so soon overtook so many. Indeed the Isthmus seems adapted to health and enjoyment. It is swept by ocean breezes, and abounds with fruits—oveners, hanness assessments. fruits—oranges, bananas, cocoa-nuts, &c.

The inhabitants are poor and few, living in miserable hovels, dirty, half-naked, and

UNFAVORABLE PROSPECTS OF THE HARVEST in Russia.—The accounts given in all the Russian journals of the prospects of the harvest are very unfavorable. Violent storms of rain and hail, stoods and high winds have damaged the crops in many localities; and, in addition to these causes of destruction, in addition to these causes of destruction, some of the southern provinces have been visited by that scourge, the locust. In Bessarabia the population has been called out against the advancing swarms of this insect as against an invading army. A corden of control of the contr drawn round the district in which the lo-custs had appeared, and the measures taken custs had appeared, and the measures taken for the extermination of the pest had, to some extent, succeeded, when another band appeared in the same district, and in the government of Cherson. This insect army spread over the country till it covered an area of sixty wersts in length by twenty broad. It crossed the Dniester, and settled down on the forests and fields, devouring every blade of corn and every leaf. The cordon of defense extended along fifteen wersts and an active war was carried on wersts, and an active war was carried on against the insects, but by the last accounts the result was doubtful, as the locusts had broken through the line and advanced into the interior of Bessarabia. They have also appeared in the vicinity of Odessa.

EXECUTION OF A MURDERER-An Affecting Interview in Prison .- On Friday last, William Hendricks was hung at Lynchburg, Va., for the Lynchburg Republicas, who visited the prisoner early on Friday morning, says:

We found him deeply affected and fully slive to the perils of the situation in which he was placed. While we were with him, his brother, a boy about ten years old, came to take his last farewell of him. The scene that ensued was affecting in the extreme—the little one clinging to the neck of his calculated to melt the hardest heart, and one which, we pray, we may never witness again.

Great Panic in Naples-The City Hourly Expecting a Siege. The Naples correspondent of the London Times writes from the former city on the

We have already published an account of Signor Farini's performance on the rope in crossing Niagara, but this relation places the affair in a new light, and adds to its terrific character:

After spending some time in fixing the guys, he was ready for the start, and appeared at the end of the cable with his man. The man selected to bear him company on his perilous journey was Mr. Rowland Mc-Mullen. He was about five feet nine or ten inches in hight, and weighs rather over 150 pounds. This, added to the weight of the balancing-pole, made a load of over 200 pounds—more than a barrel of flour. Adusting his burden, he started out over the usting his burden, he started out over the frightful chasm. Cautiously, yet fearlessly, he traveled, while the crowd who witnessed he traveled, while the crowd who witnessed him were under the most intense excitement. After proceeding a short distance he experienced great difficulty from his balancing-pole catching under the guys. This, with the lateral, swinging motion of the cable, made the performance one of the most dangerous and fearful we have ever witnessed.

gerous and fearful we have ever witnessed.

Whatever sensations might have pervaded the people, the bold performers showed no signs of fear. After proceeding a short distance, McMullen got down on the rope and both sat down and rested. They soon resumed their journey, however, and, for variety, McMullen walked and rode at short intervals. In walking he merely placed his hands on the Signor sahoulders and followed. While both were walking it required a wonderful presence of mind, as well as courage derful presence of mind, as well as courage to preserve a balance. The Signor had him-self and the dissimilar motions of his comrade to attend to. But it was very hand-somely done. They made but few stops until they reached the middle of the river. Here, according to the bills, they were turn around and retrace their steps. Wi McMullen turned round the Signor passed under the cable and McMullen, and thus usined the desired position. After resting some time they started on their return. This they accomplished with less trouble from the guys. McMullen was alternately on the rope and the Signor's back. The difficult and hazardous act of climbing upon Farini's back must be witnessed to be understood and appreciated. At times the rope swayed so badly that Farini was compelled to stop and stand, or sit down until it became steady. The whole performance was trying to the nerves of spectators. As they came to terra firma the crowd received them with clapping of hands and other manifestations of pleasure.

We have no time now to comment on this performance as its extraordinary character demands. Suffice it to say that it eclipses any thing ever before performed on a rope, over Niagara River, or any where else. We trust Signor Farini will be satisfied with his hard and well-earned laurels, and never undertake to repeat such a daring and truly

ATTEMPT TO RECOVER A TREASURE SHIP ON Sea.—An interesting experiment is in progress for recovering treasure from the thirty-six-gun frigate Lutine, which foundered off Terschelling, on the Dutch coast, sixty-one years ago. The Lutine had been captured by the British from the French, and had by the British from the French, and had been selected to convey an amount of specie, supposed, according to some statements, to be near £2,000,000, partly for the pay of British and Russian troops, and partly for the assistance of Hamburg merchants. During the past thirty or forty years various attempts have been made to recover the treasure, and about £50,000 had at considerable expenses been obtained and the wreek parties interested, in conjunction with the Committee of Lloyd's on behalf of the rep-resentatives of the underwriters who sustained loss, have resolved to employ Heinke's diving apparatus, and the result is that an examination has been effected, which shows that the wreck is at present unusually free from sand, although still buried a great ex-tent, and that hopes are still held out of the possibility of a considerable portion of the treasure being recovered this season. It is stated, however, that prompt operations will be necessary, as from the influence of a pe-culiar wind, the sands may at any time again

Another Egotistico-Sentimental Epistle FROM LAMARTINE .- Lamartine thas recently written thus to a gentleman in this country: An indisposition has suspended my reply, but it has not suspended my sense of obliga-tion to you. Allow me to express it to you across the seas. Sentiments like yours and mine have nothing to do with distant mine have nothing to do with distance. TRIAL TRIP OF THE WINANS STEAMER .- The Baltimore Patriot gives an account of a trial trip of this novel steamer, from which we extract the following: The hull has been lengthened some 125 feet, we believe, and it now makes quite a formidable appearance on the water. It floated like a duck, and obeyed the helm with the murder of Thomas Johnson, in Decent-ber last. About 3,000 persons witnessed the execution. The doomed man acknowledged his guilt, but declared that he committed the deed under deep provocation. The editor of the Lynchburg Republicas, who visited the prisoner early on Friday morning, says: ing side. > A DESPENATE LEAP FOR FREEDOM,—A fugitive negro, belonging to the firm of Peterson, McCarthy & Powell, of North Carolina, who had been absent for seven years, was arrested in Savannah, Georgia, a short time ago, and placed in jail for the offense. He was taken out of prison a few days ago by his owner, who had sent him in the Southern Railroad cars to Petersburg, on his way to Richmond to be sold. When the cars had arrived close to Ream's Station, about ten miles from Petersburg, and while they were going at a rate of twenty-five miles an hour, the reckless wretch opened one of the side-windows and jumped out on the line. It was not supposed that he could have survived the terrible fall, but accounts have been received that he was seen afterward on the railroad. A DESPESSATE LEAP FOR FREEDOM .-- A

14th instant:

I can not describe to you the panic which has taken possession of the people. We have a second 4th of May this morning, for the whole population are swarming out, and every kind of household furniture is to be met with. Truth to say, the appearance of things is not likely to caim the nerves of the timid. Sentinels stand at the corner of every street; large bodies of troops and of the National Guard are patrolling the city. Many are bivouscked in the squares, where they have spent the night, and artillery is in they have spent the night, and artillery is in the streets. Things, I repeat, look very ugly. Half an hour after midnight we were startled by hearing several rounds of cannon in the direction of Castellamare, but as yet I have not heard the details. An attack was made, I am told, on the ship-of-the-line the Monarca, which is nearly ready for sea. I have since gathered these details. The Veloce arrived at midnight in the port of Castellamare, stem on toward the Monarca. Two boat-loads of men proceeded, one to the Two boat-loads of men proceeded, one to the stern, the other to the bows. A hawser was cut; the chain-cable resisted the efforts of cut; the chain-cable resisted the efforts of the men, one of whom exclaimed, "E impossible." The sentinel, hearing it, gave the alarm, and shots were fired on both sides, the Garibaldini crying out, "Viva Italiar" "Viva Garibaldir" the others responding, "Viva il Ref" The fort opened fire, but with what effect I can not tell. Finally, the Veloce withdrew behind the British and French shire of war stationed there. French ships-of-war stationed there. A boat from each vessel went ashore to make inquiries into the affair, and returning, induced the Veloce to leave. Captain Acton, of the Monarca, is wounded, some say mortally two or three men are wounded, and, some add, two killed. I may not ascertain the decision of the Ministry before I close this, but I may give it almost as certain that the city will be in a state of siege to-day, under the custody of the National Guard. The military, with the exception of a small body, will leave the city. The fact is, I believe, that a reaction-ary plot has been discovered, at the head of which was the Count of Aquila. The Countess and her family went on board a Brazil ian vessel of war during the night, and his Royal Highness is now on board his yacht. He has instructions which he is to open when ten miles at ses. On board the Pausilippo, which arrived yesterday with Dumas, there were only 1,500 muskets intended for Sicily, but a number of cases of revolvers consigned to a French gentleman here for Prince Luigi. The Government had telegraphic warning of the fact, and the landing of them was pro-hibited. In the Ministry they have been busy arranging the best points of the capital for the concentration of the National Guard.

The Count of Aquila and all his family have been sent out of Naples to-day, the residence of the Count here being considered inconsist-ent with public order. A conspiracy has been discovered, in a reactionary sense, of which he was the head. Naples is as sad as a small Scotch town on a Sunday—shops all shut, and people leaving as fast as they can.

STEAM TUNNAGE OF THE PRINCIPAL PORTS OF THE UNITED STATES .- The following state ment of the enrollment of steam vess States, in 1809, is taken from the "Report on Commerce and Navigation," recently issued by our Government:

The total steam tunnage of the whole United States, for the year ending June 30, 1850, was 676,004,83-95 tuns. FEARFUL HURRIGANE DURING AN ECLIPSE.

On the day of the eclipse, and while the sun was obscured, the town and neighborhood of Annecy (Savoy) was visited by a tremen-dous hurricane. In the town stacks of chim-neys and parts of roofs were blown down, neys and parts of roofs were blown down, and the streets covered with bricks and tiles; and in the country trees were torn up by the roots, and others had large branches torn off. The obscurity of the celipse, added to that caused by the storm, almost turned day into night, and in many houses it was found necessary to have lights. Reports of similar stories reach us also from different parts of Switzerland.

The Judge then referred to Breckinridge's assertion that he (Douglas) was not the regular nominee of the party, and that he had broken faith in relation to the decision of the Supreme Court, denying the truth of Heavy Damages Claimed in a Peculiar Case.—A suit for $25,000 was docketed in one of the St. Louis courts, a few days since, which will prove interesting. This suit is brought to test the legal right of the Mayor to commit a child to the House of Refuge, who has parents living in the city at the time, but who, in the opinion of the Mayor, are not suitable persons to have charge of the child. Several writs of habous corners both charges. He reiterated that if Breckin-ridge had not been nominated he (Douglas) would have beaten Lincoln in every State excepting Vermont and Massachusetts. He also repeated the sentiments expressed in the child. Several writs of habeas corpus have been tried, and this action is now brought for the alleged false and malicious imprisonment of the child, who is scarce nine years of age.

MORE RUMORED SERVICE CONSERVATION .. tumors of negro insurrections in the South are getting to be quite common now-a-days; so much so, indeed, that scarcely any thing is thought of them. The Savannah (Ga). Republican sententiously says: "A rumor of servile insurrection was sifted to the bottom in Rome, and it was found that a discharged convict had passed a broken bank-bill on one negro, and held private conversation with another. Apprehensions were quieted, and the convict had half his head shaved, and, on the receipt of thirty-nine lashes, was ban-

FREE-LOVE, DIVINITY AND THE BAR-Clerygman Kalloch Turned Lawyer in Kan-sas.—Rev. I. S. Kalloch, who became so notorious from his supposed free-love proclivi-ties in the North-east, and who went to Kansas some time since, has left his pulpit there, and become a lawyer; having formed a partnership with John L. Pendery, formerly of this city-known out West as Judge Pen dery. It is to be hoped that Mr. Kelloch, i embracing the law, will have less leisure than he seems to have had, if report be cor-rect, for embracing the opposite sex.

PREVALENCE OF FEVER ON THE PANAMA ISTURUS.-A letter from Aspinall to the Picayune, of recent date, says:

Since my last there has been an unusual and alarming spread of the 1sthmus fever. Nearly every white person in the city has had it, and a much larger number of deaths have been noted down this season than any before since the milroad was finished. Among the deaths were the railroad coinpany's physician and paymaster.

Novel Pisrot March.—Capt Travis, the celebrated pistol shot, and one of his pupils, are soon to fire a novel match, at Memphis, Tenn. By agreement they are to shoot fifteen times each, the Captain's balls to first strike the floor, and, rebounding, to lodge nearer the center of the target than the ball from his opponent's pistol, who is to shoot in the ordinary way, taking deliberate aim.

The Japanese Swingles in New York.— One of the Lebnds of the Metropolitan in New York made tais report in regard to the Japanese Embury: "While they were here our doors were open to members of the press and the friends of the Committee; and we furnished dinner daily to more than a 150 Aldermen and their friends."

BALTIMORE, September 7.—Mr. Douglas made a speech last evening from the balcony of the Gilmor House, to an immense gathering. He commenced by expressing devotion to the Union and a determination to exert all his powers to its preservation and permanency. He saks nothing for his own State that he weuld not give to the Southern States. FROM THE VERY FLATTERING manner in which our Machines have been received by the public, resulting in the sale of unward of Forty Thousand,

He then proceeded in defense of the non-We are led to believe that our endeavors to manufacture a reliable Machine have been appreciated. We take this opportunity to remark that this policy will remain unchanged, and that every Machine sold by us we shall not be state to warrant in every respect. The Grover & Haker Family Machine has one advantage which is worthy of special attention, in addition to the beauty, strength and elsaticity of the stitch, and that is, its adaptation to either intervention doctrine, contending that the slavery question must be settled by local exigencies; that where its labor could be exigencies; that where its labor could be made profitable, there it would go and not otherwise, and that all the powers of Christendom could not force it upon unwilling people; and, on the other hand, wherever the people thought it for their interest, they would have it in defiance of all attempts to prohibit.

It is said a fundamental principle of the Federal Compact is, that each State shall be left to make laws adapted to its circumstances. He alluded briefly to the Wilmot Proviso, as being unconstitutional and an

He alluded briefly to the Wilmot Proviso, as being unconstitutional and an infringement on the rights of the people, and to the secessionists as being hand-and-glove with the Black Republicans in the assertion of the right of Congress to interfere with slavery, one party wishing to force the institution where the people don't want it, the other to abolish it where the people downthing.
